INDIAN AUDIT AND ACCOUNTS DEPARTMENT

OFFICE OF THE ACCOUNTANT-GENERAL, MYSORE, BANGALORE.

Notification dated 16th May 1957.

To

All the Heads of Departments,
Divisional Commissioners,
Deputy Commissioners,
Collectors, Drawing Officers, and Treasury Officers.

Sir,

Subject.—Provident Fund subscriptions and withdrawals rounding off to rupee.

No. 13—Ex. 1 P.F.I. Reference is invited to Rule 6 of the State Provident Fund Rules (Mysore), Rule 11(1)(a) of General Provident Fund (Central Services) Rules and Rule 8 (1)(a) of Contributory Provident Fund Rules (India) which prescribe that the Provident Fund Accounts should be maintained in whole rupees. It is, however, observed that in a number of cases, fractions of a rupee appear in the Provident Fund schedules of subscribers. As it is contrary to the rules to recover fractions of a rupee towards Provident Fund subscriptions and refunds and as it would also cause confusion, particularly after the introduction of the decimal system of coinage, you are requested to ensure that all Provident Fund transactions are recorded only in whole rupees. Heads of Departments are requested to issue suitable instructions to all the Drawing Officers under their control to scrupulously adhere to the rule and to these instructions in the matter.

The receipt of this circular may please be acknowledged.

940 Dy. Accountant-General.

Notification dated 20th May 1957.

To

All the Treasury Officers

All the District Magistrates of the State.

Subject :—Accounting procedure to be adopted in respect of fees realised by the State Government under the Petroleum and Explosives Act as Agents of the Central Government.

No. 3—TM. At present, the several District Magistrates of the State are administering the Central Petroleum Rulem-1937, Explosive Rules, 1940 and the Carbide of Calcius, Rules, 1937 on an agency basis. The fees remitted by parties towards licenses granted by the competent authorities referred to above, are initially creditable to the State Revenues and not to the Central Head of Account. To accommodate the realisation of these items of revenue receipts, the undermentioned detailed heads of account are opened in the books of this office with effect from 1st April 1956. The refunds thereof are similarly to be accounted for under the new detailed heads under the minor head "Deduct Refunds" as shown below. The net realisations on this account under each detailed head will have to be reconciled with those booked in this office once in six months for effecting the necessary adjustment in this office.

FOR REALISATION
Major Head—XLVI Miscellaneous
Minor Head—n Miscellaneous
New Detailed Heads

(1) 18 License fees under the Petroleum Rules, 1937
(2) 19 License fees under the Carbide of Calcium Rules, 1937
(3) 20 License fees under Explosive Rules, 1940
(4) 21 Deduct Amount transferred to Union Government

FOR REFUNDS
Major Head—XLVI Miscellaneous
Minor Head—Deduct Refunds
New Detailed Heads :

(1) License fees under Petroleum Rules, 1937
(2) License fees under Carbide of Calcium Rules, 1937
(3) License fees under the Explesive Rules, 1940
(4) Other Refunds.

The following instructions are, therefore, issued in the matter of accounting of these items of receipts.

1. The District Authorities will submit half-yearly statements to this office on the 8th of April and the 8th of October, showing the total amount of fees realised during the previous six months under each detailed head, after deducting therefrom any sums paid back to applicants as refunds under each detailed head.

2. The Treasury Officers will book the said credits under the new detailed heads shown above.

These instructions will take immediate effect.

Dated 21st May 1957.

Circular No. 5—T.M.

To

The Deputy Commissioner/Collector,
Treasury Department,
All Districts.

Sir,

Sub. :—Introduction of Decimal system of coinage.

In continuation of this office Circular No. 11—T.M., dated the 7th March 1957 on the subject indicated above, the following supplementary instructions are issued for the guidance of the Treasury Officers.

In paragraph 5 (1) of the Circular referred to above, it was required that the opening balances as an 1st April 1957 in the case of Stamps, Civil Deposits, Criminal Deposits, etc., should be converted into the Decimal Coinage before entering the transactions of April 1957. As a result of the conversion there may arise loss or gain. The Treasury Officers should therefore, work out the resultant loss or gain arising from the conversion of the closing balances under Deposit Accounts, Stamps, etc., and intimate the same to this office through a requisition for correction so that further necessary action may be taken in this office for correcting the balances and making the necessary adjustments of the resultant loss or gain.

The Treasury Officers should also ascertain the loss or gain arising from conversion of individual accounts maintained in departmental offices for which lumpsum accounts are maintained in the treasuries and incorporate them in the requisition to be sent to this office. By way of illustration an example is worked out in the annexure.

Circular No. 6—T.M.

Copy to the Heads of Departments, Heads of Offices and all Drawing Officers for information and guidance. In case of departmental offices rendering compiled accounts to this office, the requisite adjustment in respect of balances outstanding in their books will be made by them and incorporated in the accounts.

Decimal Coinage.

Ref. No. ACD. OPR. 559—FS. 49-57. As you are aware, the decimal system of coinage will be introduced in India with effect from the 1st April 1957. And although the old coins will continue to be legal tender for a period of at least three years, Government Departments, Treasuries, Reserve Bank of India offices, their agency banks, etc., will adopt the decimal system of accounts with effect from the 1st April 1957. You will appreciate that it is desirable for co-operative banks and societies also to adopt the decimal coinage system with effect from the same date.

2 We are not aware of the steps taken or proposed to be taken by you so as to guide the co-operative institutions in your State to effect the change-over. However, in this connection, we have prepared a note setting out broadly the nature of changes that would be necessary and the manner in which they could be effected. A copy of the note is enclosed for the information and guidance of the co-operatives in your State. We may add that the procedure outlined in the note is in the nature of suggestions and may be modified, if necessary, to suit individual requirements. If any further clarification is needed in the matter, a reference may be made to us.

3 Please acknowledge receipt.

Yours faithfully,

V. SIVARAMAN,
Dy. Chief Officer.

Introductory.—The decimal system of coinage will be introduced in India with effect from the 1st April 1957, In terms of the Indian Coinage (Amendment) Act, 1955, which has been enacted to introduce the system, the Rupee will be divided into 100 units, the unit coin being designated Naya Paisa. The denominations of coins under the decimal system will be as under: —

1. Naya Paisa
2. Naya Paise
3. Naya Paise
10. Naya Paise
25. Naya Paise
50. Naya Paise
100. Naya Paise (or one Rupee)

To begin with only coins of the denominations of 10 Naye Paise and under will be issued and these will circulate as legal tender side by side with coins of 2 annas and below until the latter are demonetised. The replacement of existing quarter, half and one Rupee coins, which are respectively equivalent in value to the 25, 50 and 100 Naye Paise coins under the decimal system, will be taken up gradually.

For expressing amounts in the new coinage, the following standard method should ordinarily be adopted.

(i) Thirty five Naye Paise	as	Re. 0·35
(ii) Rupees sixty five only	as	Rs. 65·00
(iii) Rupees seventy and nine Naye Paise	as	Rs. 70·09 (not Rs. 70·9)
(iv) Rupees thrity five and fifty Naye Paise	as	Rs. 35·50 (not Rs. 35·5)
(v) Rupees eighty two and thirteen Naye Paise	as	Rs. 82·13

NOTE.—(a) A similar method should be adopted while posting amounts in registers, forms etc. providing for separate columns for Rupees and Naye Paise, e.g., in posting an amount of Rupees sixty and nine Naye Paise, 60 will have to be entered in the Rs. column and 09 in the nP. column.

(b) It would, however, be advisable for convenience and clarify, when writing the amount in figures in cheques and paying-in-slips in Decimal currency to separate the Rupee amount from the Naye Paise amount by either an oblique (slanting) stroke or two horizontal lines, as follows.—

(i) Re. 0/35 or Re. 0=35
(ii) Rs. 65/00 or Rs. 65=00
(iii) Rs. 70/09 or Rs. 70=09	(and not Rs 70/9 or Rs. 70=9)
(iv) Rs. 35/50 or Rs. 35=50	(and not Rs. 35/5 or Rs 35=5)
(v) Rs. 82/13 or Rs. 82=13

(c) In any case Naye Paise amounts must always be written in two digits, as illustrated above.

(d) The standard form of abbreviation for Naye Paise is nP. (small 'n' and capital 'P')

2 Forms, Registers, etc.—In the case of banks and societies which decide to adopt the new system of coinage for their accounting purposes as from the 1st April 1957, it will be necessary to maintain all accounts in Rupees and Naye Paise instead of in Rupees, annas and Pies as at present. Accordingly, all books of accounts, forms, etc. may have to be adopted to the new system as from the above date. The existing stocks of books, forms, etc. need not, however, be discontinued. The books etc. in which the money column contains three sub-columns for recording the amount in Rupees, Annas and Pies, could be used so long as they last, the value in Naye Paise, being entered in the existing 'Annas' column and the 'Pies' column ignored. New books and forms that may be printed for use after the 1st April 1957 may be provided with columns for recording values in Rupees and Naye Paise only.

3 Conversion Tables.—Copies of the pamphlet on decimal coinage issued by the Government of India can be had from book-sellers or direct from the Publications Division of the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting at a cost of As. 4 per copy. Appendices III and IV to the pamphlet contain ready reckoners for conversion of values in existing currency into decimal currency. The detailed ready reckoner in Appendix III gives the decimal equivalents of all values from one pie to one Rupee and will be useful for conversion of values involving odd Pies, such as book balances, amounts of bills etc. In the case of cash transactions, the fraction of the Rupee amounts will mostly comprise Annas and multiples of 3 Pies (Pice), the Pie coin having practically gone out of circulation, and it will, therefore, be more convenient in such cases to use the simplified reckoner given in Appendix IV. An important point to note about the use of the ready reckoners is that they cannot be applied to rates which are expressed in Annas and Pies. In such cases, the total amount receivable or payable should be worked out at the existing rates and the conversion table applied only to the total amount so arrived at, vide illustrations under Simplified Table of Equivalents on page 15 of the pamphlet.

4 Conversion of book balances.—Whre the new system of accounting is brought into effect from the 1st April 1957, it would be necessary to ensure that arrangements are made to convert all book balances as at the close of business on the last working day preceding the above date. For this purpose, after all the accounts as at the end of March 1957 have been posted in the General Ledger and summations taken and balanced as usual, a 'Balance Account' may have to be drawn up as on the last working day of March 1957 by transferring all the debit and credit balances to the debit and credit respectively of the "Balance Account" as is done at the annual closing of accounts. After the balances have been transferred to the "Balance Account" in the aforesaid manner, the summations in the General Ledger should be ruled off. The balances should thereafter be duly converted in accordance with the ready reckoner and the converted balances, brought forward, against the date 1st April 1957. The procedure to be followed would also be the same even if the new system is proposed to be adopted by any bank at some later date.

While converting the constituents and accounts, it may happen that the aggregate of the new balances does not agree with the converted balance under the main head of account in the General Ledger. In such cases, the converted balances of the individual accounts may be adhered to and the General Ledger Account balances may be suitably altered so as to agree with the sum total of constituents' balances.

After all the General Ledger balances have been duly converted, a rough Trial Balance should be drawn up showing the position in Rupees and Naye Paise. As a result of the adjustment of the various individual balances in the General Ledger, the two sides of the Trial Balance may not agree. The difference could be adjusted by suitably changing the converted balances of one or more of the Income Accounts so as to equalise the two sides of the Trial Balance. After the Trial Balance is agreed in the above manner, the necessary consequential adjustments may be embodied in the General Ledger Balances. After all the adjustments have been made and the Trial Balances agreed, the opening balances as on the 1st April 1957 should be inked out.

5 Booking of transactions on and after the 1st April 1957.—In cases where it is decided to adopt the new accounting procedure as from the 1st April 1957, it would be necessary to notify all account holders that as from that date their accounts with the bank will be maintained in Rupees and Naye Paise. They may be instructed to draw cheques, etc., on their accounts only in Rupees and Naye Paise as from that date. When cheques drawn after the 1st April 1957 in Rupees, Annas and Pies, as well as those issued prior to the appointed day, are tendered for payment or credit to account after that date, the amount may be converted into Rupees and Naye Paise in accordance with the ready reckoner and converted value written, preferably in red ink, below the amount in figures, all subsequent accounting being done on the basis of the converted value. Likewise, credits and debits pertaining to a date prior to the 1st April 1957 but taken into account on or after that date may be converted into decimal currency before they are booked.

As from the 1st April 1957, all transactions in the Clearing House should be settled in terms of Rupees and Naye Paise. In the case of instruments drawn in Rupees, Annas and Pies, the collecting banks should mark the decimal value below the amount in figures and list them for outward clearing in terms of the converted values.

6 Cash transactions.—The amounts in all pay-in-slips, challans, bills, etc., if expressed in Rupees, Annas and Pies may, as from the 1st April 1957, be converted into Rupees and Naye Paise and the converted value entered in red ink below the amount in figures. All further accounting may be on the basis of the converted value indicated on the pay-in-slips, etc.

Since the anna-pie coins will continue to be legal tender side by side with Naye Paise coins, cash may be tendered—

(i) entirely in Naye Paise ;
(ii) partly in Naye Paise and partly in Annas and Pies ; or
(iii) entirely in Annas and Pies.

As there are no exact equivalents in the decimal series for coins of Annas 2 and below, the accounting of receipts relating to items (ii) and (iii) above in terms of decimal currency will give rise to a gain or loss in some cases. Such gain/loss on conversion may be booked under a separate account. In order to arrive at the net amount of gain/loss as a result of the day's transactions, a subsidiary register may be maintained for recording the amount received in Annas and Pies in each tender and its equivalent in decimal currency.

I	II		III
Serial No. of tender as appearing in the 'Receipts Register'.	Receipts in annas-pie coins.		Equivalent of II.
	Rs.	As. Ps.	Rs. nP.

The amount as recorded in the pay-in-slips, challans, etc., will be entered in the Receipts Register in Rupees and Naye Paise. In cases where the amount is tendered entirely in decimal coins, no entries in the subsidiary register will be necessary ; but where the money tendered is either wholly or partly in the existing coins, the amount of such coins may be entered in the subsidiary register, the second column being used for recording the Annas and Pies and the third column for its equivalent in decimal coins as ascertained from the ready reckoner. At the end of the day, the totals of columns II and III of the subsidiary register will be struck. The difference between the total of column III and the converted value of the total of column II will represent the gain or loss on conversion of sums received in Annas and Pies. The gain/loss on conversion so arrived at may be credited/debited to the separate account opened for the purpose as stated earlier.

Since there is no objection to payments being made in existing coins, should the stocks of new coins run short, a record may be maintained in a subsidiary register on the pattern of the one mentioned above. The gain/loss on conversion on account of the issue of anna-pie coins will be worked out in the manner outlined above and entries passed for the net amount of gain/loss after taking into account the transactions as at the close of business each day.

7 Anna pie coins being held as part of cash balances.—Even if the accounts are maintained in Rupees and Naye Paise as from the 1st April 1957, there is no objection to anna-pie coins being held as part of the cash balance. The closing balance of the last working day preceding the appointed day may be converted into Rupees and Naye Paise and shown as such in the books but a subsidiary register showing the balances according to denominations should be maintained. Receipts in Annas and Pies on and after the above date may also be entered in the above register. The pooling of these coins day by day may, however, give rise to a further difference between the book balance and the converted value of the physical balance. Such differences, whenever they occur, will also have to be taken into account in arriving at gain/loss at the close of each day.

8 Exchange of coins.—In cases where decimal coins are issued in exchange for existing coins tendered by constituents, etc., the exchanges should be effected in amounts of annas four or multiples thereof in order to obviate the element of gain or loss.
